Army Appropriation Carries $101,755,000

(By Associated Press)
 Washington, March 21.—An increase of $7,565,000 in the army appropriation was made by the senate today in the military affairs committee. The bill now carries an appropriation of $101,755,000. The most important new item is $125,000 to construct a military cable from Washington state to Alaska.
 The committee urged an increase of $1,321,000 in the pay for enlisted men so that the army may be maintained at its present full strength of 38,000; $2,000,000 is asked for ammunition for the militia artillery and $1,500,000 for field guns. Another addition would provide $20,000,000 for the ships.

Teachers Here Yesterday From All Schools Enthusiastic Over Outlook

Dozens of school teachers were in Anderson yesterday, some returning to their schools from Spartanburg and some just in the city for the day and with one accord they predicted for Anderson county field day, which is an event on next Friday, much success. All of the teachers seemed to be of the opinion that the school children will come to the city by the hundreds for the day and present indications are that the gathering of school children will surpass anything of the kind ever seen here before.

J. B. Felton, superintendent of education and Miss Maggie J. Garlington, supervisor of rural schools, have been working hard to make the day successful and it seems that their labors are to be rewarded. Both of these school workers have paid a number of visits to the various schools in the county where they in structured the teachers concerning the athletic program and various mental contests and in every school drill for the various events have been in progress. During the four days of the week before the field day is held these preparations and practices in the schools will be doubled and the children will be putting forth a last effort to perfect themselves for the affair.

It is expected that there will be hundreds of school children in the probably begin to arrive here by 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning. From that time until noon there will be a continuous line of children arriving in the city.

The special feature of the day will be the parade of school children through the main streets of the city and the parade of floats which will make the march from the city to beautiful Beuna Vista Park, where the day's program will be carried out.

Efficient Saving.

The Herculean Task of Saving. Where Least is Lost.
 What Life-Insurance Does for a Man.

(Extracts from paper in The Christian Endeavor World.)

BY GEORGE W. COLEMAN,

President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

It is easier to make money than to save it or to invest it. You can easily name nine good earners to one good saver. Most men would come to their old age with a snug provision for their declining years if they could save as well as they could earn.

Every year it grows more difficult to save, not only an account of the increasing cost of living, and the continuous enlargement of our needs but also because of a growing impatience with simple, modest, self-restrained living. We are yielding more readily to the little temptations and temptations of life than was the habit of our forebears.

But there is always some compensation for every loss. Never be fore were their such incentives for saving. The modern savings institutions, and the newly instituted government postal savings bank, and, best of all, the life insurance companies, provide the greatest incentives to saving and the surest rewards for thrift ever invented by the mind of man.

One may be a good saver, and still live his last days in penury, for the lack of knowing how to invest his earnings properly.

Most business men loose heavily on investments made outside their business. The average wage earner loses a large share of his precious savings in various forms of wildcat and get-rich-quick investments. The percentage of loss suffered by those who have put their hard-earned money into standard, old-line insurance companies is almost negligible. No business man with miscellaneous interests, no investor in stocks and bonds, no dealer in real estate, can show so small a percentage of losses as is entailed by those who put their money into high-grade life insurance.

Here is what life insurance does for the ordinary man: It compels him to save on a scale that he himself has named after due deliberation.

It joins his savings with others in a cooperative investment that is big enough to secure all advantages.

It puts his savings into the hands of those whose business it is to know what he cannot know about investments.

It gives his earnings the safeguards provided by state laws affecting insurance companies.

It leaves him free to give his whole time and thought to further earnings, saving him all vexation and anxiety incident to the care of property.

It takes into consideration the uncertainties of a man's earning power, and makes provision for such modifications as conditions may require, making sure that the investor gets all that he pays for, no matter how far he may fall short of his original intentions.

And, best of all, over and beyond its merits as a means of accumulations, its pay the role of a fairly good father to the dependants who find themselves suddenly cast upon their own resources through the unexpected and premature death of the one who provides.

The easiest, safest, surest and most satisfactory way to save and keep on saving is to purchase from a tested, old line, conservative insurance company some form of life insurance suited to your circumstances.

This is the best way to save, even though you have no one dependent on you and do not expect ever to have such dependants, and it is even better still for those who do have dependants.

No better provision for the future can be made than by means of a Life Insurance policy in The Staunch Old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company.
